Key As immediate and gripping as Dick Francis.

Selling As subtle and surprising as Roald Dahl.

Points A scary but life-affirming look at life, death, and love.

Perfect for travellers, skiers, and people with more energy than time.

Outline That chill running down your spine — is it just the melting snow?

These 13 stories reprise ancient myths and invent new ones. Some are about death; some are about life; practically all have something to do with love. Some are comedies, some are thrillers, some are psychological dramas. Their easily accessible approach draws the reader deeper and deeper without knowing it: skiing will never be the same again!

Other Info Backed and publicised by a website and blog.

Biography Martin Kochanski has skied, clambered and walked all over the French and Swiss Alps, the Tirol and the Dolomites. He can climb 100 metres in 10 minutes but comes down rather faster. His dark and controversial play Morgan's Boys received critical acclaim at the Edinburgh Fringe in 1998. The Snow Cow is his first published fiction.
